

Biscoto

2026 • spring

Biscoto stands up for daring, witty and audacious children's books.

Because it's never too soon to be curious, Biscoto explores graphic territories and makes them accessible for the younger ones. Thus we support authors whose work has a great liberty of tone and form.

The Biscoto team believes that reading documentaries, comics, non-formatted stories has a positive impact to stimulate curiosity, humour and dialogue.

Biscoto is aimed at everybody! We defend antisexist and antiracist values and we make sure that genders are represented equally.

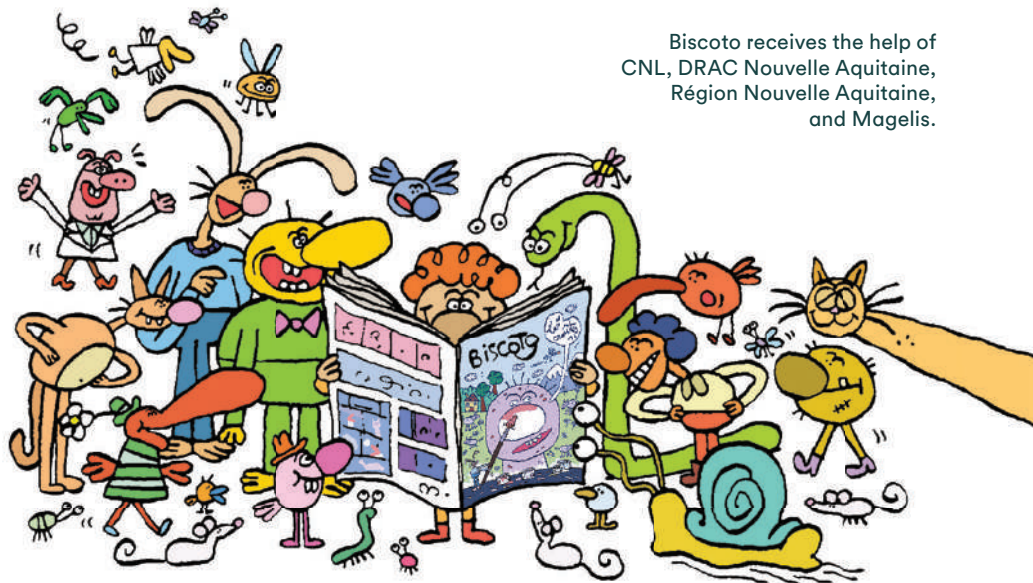

Biscoto is a non-profit organization founded in 2012.

Biscoto éditions
107 rue de Bordeaux,
16000 Angoulême
France

biscotojournal.com
facebook.com/biscotojournal twitter.com/Biscoto_Journal instagram.com/biscoto_editions

Foreign rights
Hannele and associates
info@hanneleandassociates.fr
hanneleandassociates.fr

Biscoto receives the help of CNL, DRAC Nouvelle Aquitaine,
Région Nouvelle Aquitaine, and Magelis.

picture books

A Shelter For The Night

Thibaut Rassat

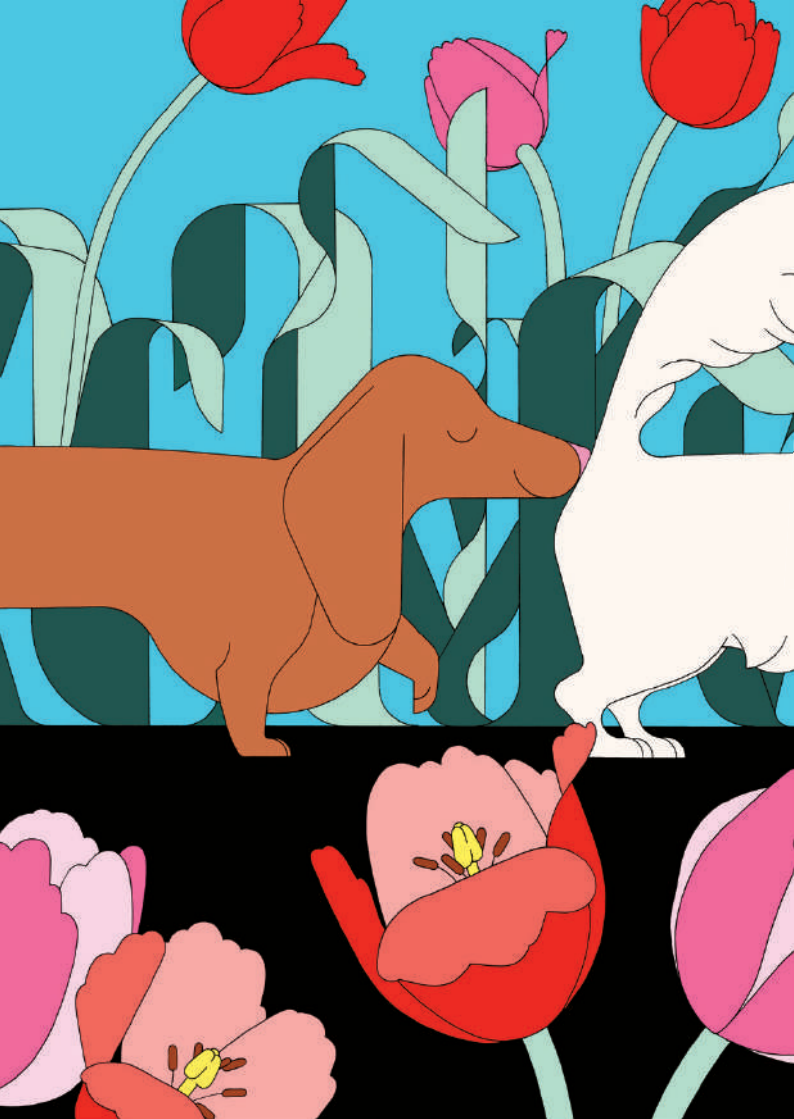

At the edge of a garden, a tiny explorer crosses paths with a big, shaggy dog. Together, they set off on a long walk, crossing landscapes where the wind makes the wild grass dance and stirs the waves in the distance. As their adventure unfolds, a sincere and moving friendship develops. Each brings to the other what they lack: courage when one is too small to see over the rocks, strength when the other is too tired to go on.

A picture book that accurately addresses the passage of time: growing up, growing old, and how these changes reshape friendship. What at first glance appears to be just a day's outing becomes a subtle metaphor for life itself.

3 years and + 15 €
56 pages
18 x 20 cm
Hardcover
978237962351

Everybody Has A Dachshund But Me

Charlotte Pollet

Rights sold

- Korean
- Italian

Is life worth living without a dachshund? Assa wonders in despair. Everyone has a dachshund except her! Or is she the one seeing dachshunds everywhere?

A fascination so big that the funny dog appears sneakily in all the images, until it blends in where you least expect it, thanks to a game with shapes that allows it to stay camouflaged.

Through a story full of visual finds, the author tackles the complicated relationship one can have with trends and the ephemeral in an offbeat way. In an amazing ending, she shows us that the source of happiness can be something completely different from what we were obsessed with at the beginning!

4 years and + 19 €
48 pages
24 x 32 cm
Hardcover
9782379620300

Charlotte Pollet's clear, rigorous and ultra-confident line composes soft, dazzling images, in which the dachshund figure takes pride of place. Her storytelling is playful and mischievous, and the sugar-glazed colors a delicious treat. The result is a book that's euphoric, funny and superb, with delicious attention to detail.

Myriagone (Angers)

Whimsical, funny, delicate and inclusive. It's the perfect recipe, and we're in for a treat!

Petite Égypte (Paris)

In this colourful and humorous picture book, a child complains about not having a dachshund, when EVERYONE has one. The image of the dachshund is then declined to the point of absurdity to figure the childish obsession: not only are there dachshunds everywhere but everything around has a dachshund shape! Each page is sure to provoke laughter from little ones (aged 3 and up) and adults alike!

La Madeleine (Lyon)

Here's an book like no other. It begins with a pretty story that encourages singularity and deflates jealousy. Then it's off to the sublime, search-and-find double-page spreads to unearth the famous dachshunds. Double coup!

Graou

With few words, Charlotte Pollet insists on the importance of cultivating spontaneity, of rejoicing in being loved, and helps to spread ever greater diversity.

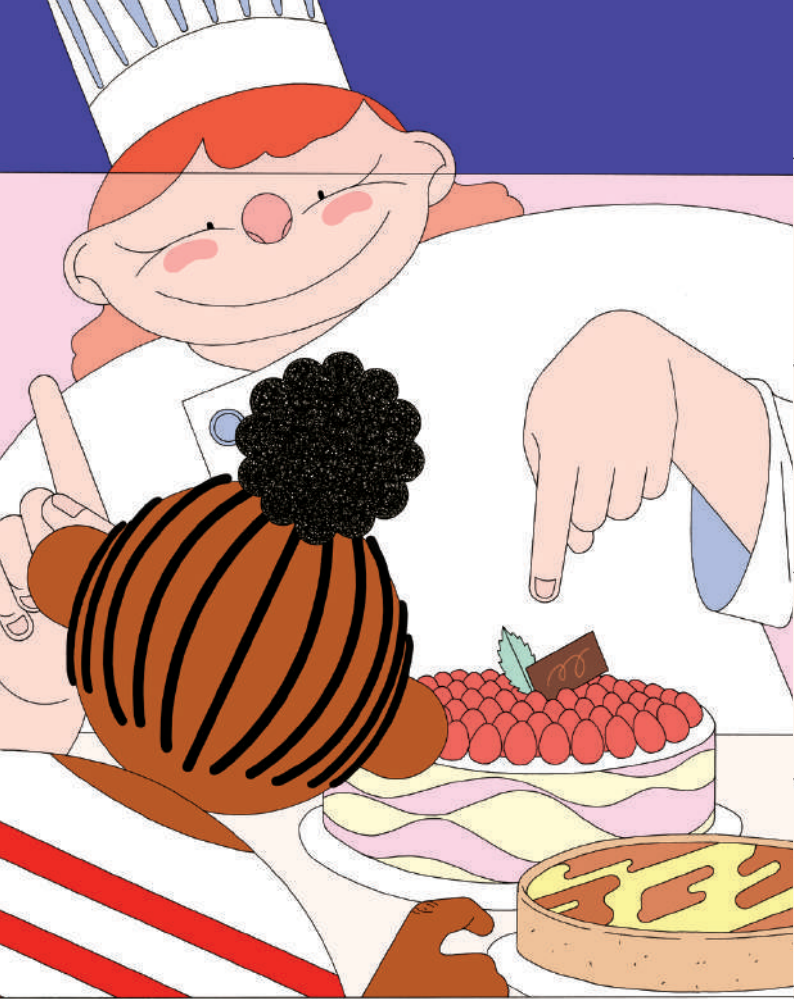

Oh ! Bah !

Bold framing and a pared-down graphic style make for an almost textless story with an unexpected ending.

Les Belles Histoires

In this picture book, you're in for a real treat with its surprising shots and quirky, pop, dynamic illustrations, supported underneath by a few words, like a litany. We stop at nothing to look for the dachshunds hidden on the page, and tell ourselves how much we like the heroine's clownish face, her strong character and her incredible vivacity.

Le Temps

La pâtissière

a un teckel

Fourmillon

Charlotte Lemaire

Rights sold

- Korean

The newspaper reports that a comet has been asleep behind the clouds for some time. It's not moving. Usually, radish don't make a fuss, but today, bending down to earth, Pascalutin finds between two radish stalks a little fellow of no account at all. Fourmillon, who dreams of talking to the comet. But up there, so high in the sky, she seems unreachable... Will climbing the radish through the cloud cover be enough to reach the sky? Maybe the mocking kingfisher is right, and comets are attracted by good cakes of blue radish?

4 years and + 18 €
92 pages
27 x 33,5 cm
Hardcover
9782379623035

Charlotte Lemaire's large illustrations allow readers to immerse themselves in this funny adventure, a poetic and tender reflection on the infinitely small and the very large.

Modes & Travaux

Illustrations that play with dimensions and perspectives, page borders that resemble flipbooks: readers will follow Charlotte Lemaire's brushstrokes with renewed delight on every page as they explore the fantastical world she has created for Fourmillon.

Citrouille Magazine

The book follows the delusions of grandeur of these two characters, in the phantasmagorical elasticity of illustrations combining acrylic paint and black pencil.

Télérama
(Christmas selection)

Ants and comets. An album that you can leaf through forwards or backwards, playing with colours and shapes, because depending on whether you are big or small, the world is never quite the same. According to the latest news, it seems that a comet has fallen asleep behind the clouds. Everyone would love to visit the one behind the 'mouse-grey' sky, as the mouse says, which spoils the landscape. But Pascalutin and Fourmillon are not lacking in imagination. The cloud cover turns into a giant duvet under which everyone comes to snuggle up! And all you have to do is climb the radimmenses growing in the vegetable garden to find the comet. Charlotte Lemaire's drawings sparkle with colour and inventiveness. They have retained all the sweetness of childhood. A story as far-fetched as all the radimmenses cakes that fill the pages of the book with their aroma.

L'Humanité

The Slow Shoes And The Curious Path

Charlotte Lemaire

Rights sold

- Korean
- Greek

4 years and + 17 €
40 pages
24 x 33,5 cm
Hardcover
9782379620614

One Thursday in Spring, Gisele slips an “ice cream voucher” into her pocket and heads to the ice cream van. But on the way, she discovers a mysterious pair of “slow trainers”. Shoes that slow you down when you try to run! And so, she sets off on a year-long journey. Slowness becomes synonymous with observation, encounters, fun and poetry. It takes Gisèle a whole year to get from her house to the ice cream van. A year observing the landscape that stretches out like chewing gum, listening to the leaves crunch under her feet, the fruit whisper in the forest, the chestnuts waiting to ripen... A world in which climbing over a rock literally lasts as long as it takes a larva to turn into a beetle.

non fiction

3 grosses griffes
Pour bien
s'accrocher, et se défendre
au sol!

Animal Visions, For A Better Understanding Of The World

Christian Staebler, collectif

Did you know that sloths live in symbiosis with algae? That field crickets' eardrums are located in their shins? And that scallops have 200 eyes? In Animal Visions, we meet dozens of animals, some well known, others much more mysterious. We learn lots of surprising information with detailed fact sheets illustrated by more than twenty illustrators! In addition to the animal portraits, the author helps us understand the major scientific principles of life on Earth, the evolution of species, and their relationships with each other and their environment. This comprehensive scientific documentary book is accessible at different reading levels. Readers can glean unusual information and explore more general questions about intelligence, domestication, the importance of soil, and environmental protection. A glossary and index accompany the book. This title provides keys to understanding the Earth and the living beings around us.

9 years and + 19 €
180 pages
17 x 24 cm
Hardcover
9782379620614

Ours blanc

Avec ses 400 kilos et près de 3 mètres de longueur (un peu moins pour la femelle), l'ours blanc, ou ours polaire, est le plus grand carnivore terrestre. Sa fourrure, très isolante, lui permet de vivre tout autour du Pôle Nord, sur la banquise.

Vive le froid

Sa fourrure est tellement isolante qu'il lui arrive d'avoir trop chaud et de se rouler dans la neige pour se rafraîchir ! Hélas, avec le climat qui se réchauffe, la banquise se fait plus rare, et il est probable que les derniers ours blancs disparaîtront d'ici une trentaine d'années.

La fonte des glaces diminue la surface de leurs territoires de chasse, d'autant plus qu'aux pôles, la température augmente encore plus vite que sous nos latitudes.

La mère

Se roule dans la neige pour se rafraîchir.

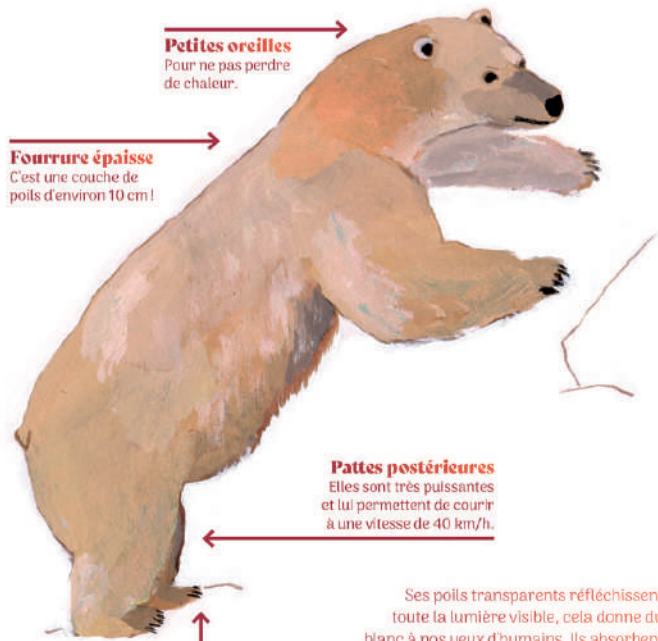

Les deux petits
Jouent à se bagarrer.

Un chasseur impitoyable

Pour résister au froid, il doit accumuler plein de graisse. Alors il mange beaucoup, de préférence des phoques, mais aussi toutes sortes de poissons. Certains ours passent de 100 à 400 kilos en quelques mois. Les phoques, menacés eux aussi par la diminution de la banquise, deviennent progressivement des proies plus rares pour l'ours blanc. Il arrive donc de plus en plus souvent que celui-ci entre dans les villages du Grand Nord, pour chaparder dans les décharges ou les poubelles des habitations.

Il est capable de tuer un humain très facilement, mais les attaques restent très rares, car il préfère fuir les rencontres. Les populations humaines autochtones (celles qui vivent au Pôle depuis toujours, Inuits, Saami, Yupiks et autres peuples du Grand Nord, chassaient l'ours dont ils mangeaient la chair, et ils utilisaient fourrure et os pour l'habillement et la fabrication d'outils. Ces mêmes peuples le protègent aujourd'hui. Mais quand va-t-on vraiment lutter contre le réchauffement climatique qui provoque la fonte des glaces et réduit les territoires de ces grands Mammifères ?

Petites oreilles
Pour ne pas perdre de chaleur.

Fourrure épaisse
C'est une couche de poils d'environ 10 cm !

Pattes postérieures
Elles sont très puissantes et lui permettent de courir à une vitesse de 40 km/h.

Griffes acérées
Les poils sous ses pattes l'aident à ne pas dérapier.

Ses poils transparents réfléchissent toute la lumière visible, cela donne du blanc à nos yeux d'humains. Ils absorbent les rayons infrarouges (qui sont une forme de chaleur), ce qui permet de réchauffer le corps de l'ours. Sous ses poils, sa peau noire lui permet d'absorber la chaleur : lorsque la lumière, source de chaleur, arrive sur une surface noire, elle n'est pas réfléchiée, elle est absorbée.

Longévité
15 à 30 ans

Nom latin
Ursus maritimo

Poids
410 kg (mâles)
320 kg (femelles)

Régime alimentaire
Carnivore

Habitat
Banquise, pôle Nord

Taille
280 cm (mâles)
200 cm (femelles)

Illustratrice
Charlotte Lemaire

Portée
1 ou 2

Lieu de vie

Ordre Carnivora

graphic novel

TOUT LE MONDE A UNE CARTE
À JOUER ?

oui!!

ALORS, VOUS ÊTES TOUS HABITANTS
D'UN MIGNON VILLAGE ...

... MAIS! PARMi VOUS SE
CACHENT...

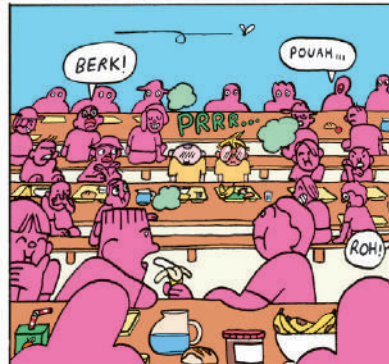

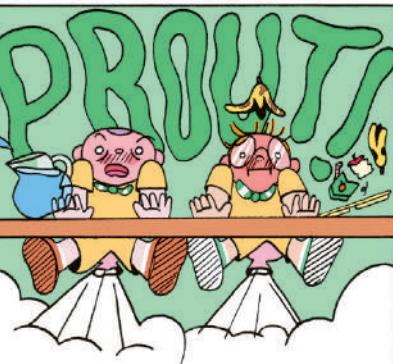

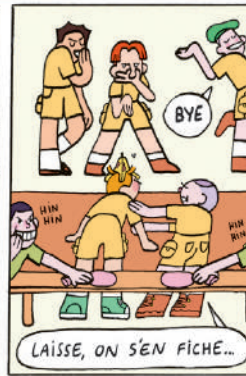

Chiwawow

Clémence Sauvage

When Titouan announces in class that he will be spending his summer in the United States for an international scout gathering, a mysterious child listens behind the door. Without hesitation, the child rushes to steal his belongings, sneak in, and assume his identity among the scouts. What are his intentions, and who is he really? This scheme is quickly foiled by Peter, Titouan's best friend, who no longer recognizes his friend since the beginning of the trip... As the days go by, however, a friendship develops between the two children and Peter discovers the truth: "Titouan" is actually Marthe, a little girl traveling with Pois Chiche, a Chihuahua...

7 years and + 15 €
72 pages
17 × 23 cm
Hardcover
9782379623394

Life in a community, encounters and squabbles with friends, anxiety about performing in a show, mosquito bites... This adventure, which feels like it's based on real life, takes the drama out of traveling with humour.

France Inter

Friendship, adventure, and zaniness abound in this crazy story that kept us on the edge of our seats and had us laughing all the way to the end!

J'aime Lire Max

A funny, beautiful, tender comic book full of twists and turns.

Astrapi

Clémence Sauvage twists the classic summer camp story into a comedy full of secrets and misunderstandings, with juicy scenes portrayed in a rounded and colourful style to great effect. She also tackles issues of self-confidence, bullying, friendship, solidarity, and animal welfare, while always remaining positive and bubbly. Just what you need to start the new school year with a burst of energy.

Télérama

LA SILHOUETTE...

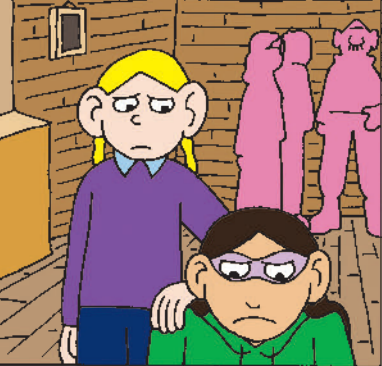

Violette Vol.3 Mystery In Chamoisix

Émilie Clarke

At Chamoisix, excitement quickly turns to disappointment. Not only is it not a skiing trip but a reading club, but Violette is also separated from her friends when the rooms are allocated... All this distances Violette from her friends and severely damages their relationship. In short, the atmosphere already seems rotten. So what could be better than a new mystery to solve to escape the gloom of the trip? Violette is convinced that the famous novelist Romuald Dule, whom the class has the honour of meeting, is not who he claims to be, or at least that he is hiding a huge secret.

8 years and + 19 €
152 pages
17 x 23 cm
Hardcover
9782379623332

Violette is back with her magic glasses. This third volume, illustrated by Émilie Clarke, is a magnificent portrait of adolescence.

Geek Junior

A book to be shared between parents and children, and when it's time to close the book, we have only one desire: to meet Violette again for her next adventure!

Avoir-Alive

A detective story for children set in the mountains. With her special glasses, Violette sees things that others cannot see. While attending a literature class in Chamoisix (sic), she witnesses strange things happening around the writer Romuald Dule: a ghost walks around him, even though he insists he never had a wife. So why does he visit Suzanne Dule's grave? We love this strong-willed heroine, the adventure reads

Violette is definitely an unrivalled heroine in comics for preteens. With her larger-than-life tone, her zany stories that are always rooted in the issues faced by secondary school pupils (in this case, first periods and school trips), her well-balanced humour and her inventive, elastic drawings, this series is a delight in every volume.

Télérama

like a detective novel, and feminist values are gently woven into the story. The clear line drawings, made up of flat colours, allow readers to identify with the characters and have a great time. This is the third Violette story, and the quality is as good as ever.

With her sharp humour and sincere take on adolescence, Émilie Clarke takes us on a fast-paced, funny and suspenseful adventure about friendship, conflict, first experiences and self-confidence.

France Inter

Coze

Violette Vol.2 VS Grimlin1

Émilie Clarke

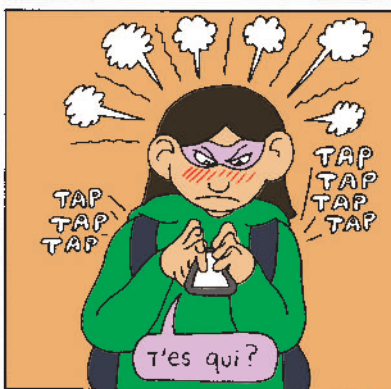

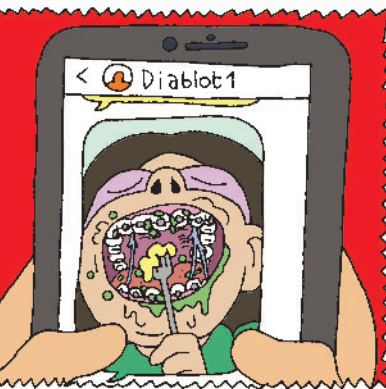

It's Violette and her friends' first day at secondary school! Violette soon becomes a bit of a celebrity at school, thanks to her trusty magic glasses that give her the power to see what is invisible to others. She also discovers the joys and more or less pleasant changes that go with growing up. But a new enemy suddenly pops up on her phone... Gremlin1, an anonymous cyberbully, is blackmailing Violette using a photo taken of her without her knowledge! And he steals her glasses! Will she manage to reveal his identity?

Rights sold

- Korean
- Simplified Chinese
- Spanish (World)
- Italian
- Turkish

7 years and + 18 €
136 pages
17 × 23 cm
Hardcover
9782379620317

As pop and punchy as the first title, the second volume of Violette's adventures is rich in emotions: there are sorrows, love, of course, and above all, friendship in high doses! Émilie Clarke has the art of telling the joys and setbacks of pre-adolescence in a unique and tasty way. I love it!

Séverine, Hisler BD

Émilie Clarke manages to tell the story of the difficulties of adolescence with dynamism and an unequalled finesse.

Louis-Hermes, Ça va Buller

Émilie Clarke delights us with this new adventure of Violette, in the form of a college survival guide!

Claire, Maupetit

Violette deserves its place on library shelves, in schools, and in children's bedrooms: it's an absolute pleasure to read and an attentive shoulder to lean on.

Lucie Kosmala

A wonderful, fresh graphic novel

France Culture

A light-hearted, funny and colourful comic about the transition to middle school.

Manon

Bullying and its devastating consequences (suspicion, loss of self-confidence...) are addressed here in a realistic way that feels believable, yet with enough distance to ensure we're drawn into the plot. The solidarity shown by Violette's friends is a pleasure to see. Émilie Clarke's illustrations are cheerful, modern and perfectly suited to the adventure.

France Inter

We really like Violette and her band of friends, their sense of humour and, above all, their great team spirit, which helps them to overcome any situation... Well done, girls!

Le Journal de Mickey

Violette Vol.1

The Magic Glasses

Émilie Clarke

Rights sold

- Korean
- Simplified Chinese
- Spanish (World)
- Italian
- Turkish

Violette is 10 years old. During a health check-up at school, the doctor realises that she can't see properly and that she needs glasses. Violette is upset. She's sure that Lisa, the class know-it-all, will make fun of her! Luckily, a strange optician has the perfect pair of magic glasses for her. And with this new accessory and her super-powers, Violette soon becomes the star of the playground. She can see all the school's secrets and discovers the presence of a ghost, who helps her uncover an evil plan and terrible crime...

7 years and + 17 €
128 pages
17 × 23 cm
Hardcover
9782379620294

SI SEULEMENT J'Y VOYAIS QUELQUE CHOSE ...

COUPE DE L'OEIL

ESSAIS RATES

TIC TAC TIC TAC

Lili Sets Sail

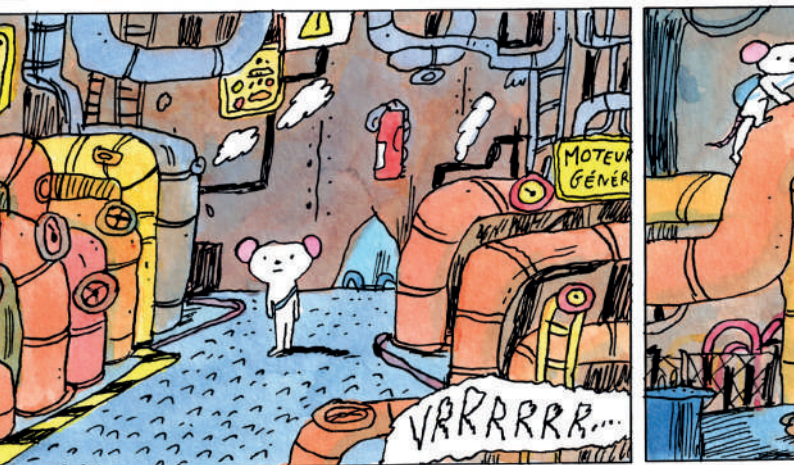

Clara Hervé

- Shortlisted Fauve jeunesse Festival d'Angoulême 2024

You can't say that mice are lazy. The community where Lili lives is very active. But Lili prefers to immerse herself in reading the adventures of her beloved hero: Cissy Joly. A pirate with a big heart, he lives an exciting and intrepid life beyond the seas. So, one day, she decides to follow in Cissy Joly's footsteps. After convincing her parents, she boards a ship where she discovers a life just as tiring and routine as the farm she left behind. Fortunately, she eventually crosses paths with Coco, a rat who is also an admirer of Cissy. The adventure begins when the two new friends cross paths with their hero. For Cissy is also a passenger on this ship...

7 years and + 15 €
64 pages
17 × 23 cm
Hardcover
9782379623196

With its lively illustrations and charming colours, Lili wins you over from the very first pages. And we hope that this is just the first adventure for this cute little mouse!

Bodoï

On board, although Lili initially loses some of her illusions, a conspiracy and a beautiful friendship will satisfy her thirst for adventure. A colourful and beautifully imaginative book by a talented young author to watch out for.

La Revue des livres pour enfants (BNF)

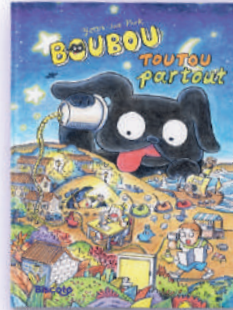

In her first comic book, Clara Hervé demonstrates her impressive talent as an author in this story with classic elements, but told with energy and mischief. Her lively style and watercolours stand out in a children's comic book landscape that is often too stereotyped, and it feels great! What's more, she pays a beautiful tribute to adventure literature and the power of imagination, which is never a bad thing. So, if Lili ever sets sail again in a new instalment, we'll happily follow her.

Télérama

Boubou Puppy Everywhere

Yoon-sun Park

Antonin's parents take him on holiday to his grandmother's house in a faraway country. Unfortunately, their dog, the fabulous Boubou, cannot accompany them. He has to stay in France, where Zoé will look after him. So off the little family goes to catch their flight. Very quickly, even before boarding the plane, strange things start to happen. Also, how can they stay in touch when they are thousands of kilometres apart? With yoghurt pots, of course! And then it will be time for a reunion... provided the house is still standing.

Rights sold

- Russian
- Korean

5 years and + 16 €
88 pages
17 × 23 cm
Hardcover
9782379623226

Boubou

Yoon-sun Park

- Shortlisted Fauve jeunesse Festival d'Angoulême 2023

Rights sold

- Russian
- Spanish (World)
- Catalan
- Basque
- Korean

7 years and + 16 €
96 pages
17 × 23 cm
Hardcover
9782379620461

Boubou is Antonin's little dog. Along with their friends Zoe and Raoul, they spend their time daydreaming about worlds inhabited by elves, magic keys and living objects. But... what if it was all real? This wacky and magical comic book by Yoon-Sun Park features five hilarious adventures alongside Boubou and his friends, told through the children and dog's eyes. Yoon-Sun Park's round and lively drawings, brought to life by her vivid watercolours, perfectly illustrate the book's touching and fantastic atmosphere. A journey in five episodes through everyday life, that seamlessly moves from normal to magical and ordinary to colourful.

Pipistrelli 3 Heading For Midnight

Charlotte Pollet

How sweet is the purr of everyday life, predictable and mellow. It satisfies the heart. All hearts? It would seem not... Minit, the lone ninja and Olive's best friend, feels the call of adventure. Unable to express her doubts to Olive, Minit slips away on tiptoe... Overnight, Olive is confronted with the unexplained absence of her dear friend and decides to go in search of her. Along the way, she meets a donkey, Parka, who has also lost someone. They then embark on a determined journey to find their missing loved ones. They will discover that you can lose yourself while searching for someone who is absent, and will learn from their journey to accept absence in order to be able to live with it.

8 years and + 16 €
84 pages
28 x 21 cm
Hardcover
9782379623301

Charlotte Pollet tackles complex subjects such as absence, the desire for solitude, depression and the importance of listening to the needs of others as well as your own. In the course of a rural epic, which brings her touching heroine into contact with Parka the donkey, following in the footsteps of her parakeet who has flown away to other skies, as well as a very clear-sighted mole, the author develops a story that is as poetic as it is moving, airy and nostalgic, like an autumn leaf carried away by the breeze. With her fine lines, surprising layouts and skill at crafting unique texts – both in terms of content and graphic form – Charlotte Pollet once again raises the bar for children's comics. Bravo.

Télérama

A winning combination of humour, unbridled imagination, tenderness and even a touch of philosophy. This immense favourite definitely makes you want to read the two previous volumes.

Le Temps

Is it a children's comic book or a philosophy album? Either way, it's a gem! It's difficult to understand and accept that the people we love have different needs from our own. Pipistrelli has a long way to go, but luckily she's not alone. You might think this subject is too complex for children, but that's not the case. The beautiful illustrations and humour will help readers through this difficult lesson.

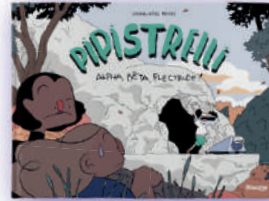

Libbylit

Pipistrelli 2

Alfa, Bêta, Plectrude!

Charlotte Pollet

Rights sold

- Chinese (Simplified)

It's the Autumn Festival in the forest! Olive, Minuit, Mouche and Bescherelle dance the night away! When they wake up the next morning, a strange machine with infinite knowledge appears out of nowhere. Nobody knows what to think but Bescherelle is obsessed with "Plectrude" and its science.

8 years and + 15 €
72 pages
28 x 21 cm
Hardcover
9791092119923

Pipistrelli

Charlotte Pollet

• Shortlisted Fauve jeunesse Festival d'Angoulême 2019

• Shortlisted Pépites BD SLPJ Montreuil 2019

Rights sold

• Chinese (Simplified)

8 years and + 14 €
56 pages
21 x 28 cm
Hardcover
9791092119923

Olive Pipistrelli leads a peaceful life in the forest with her friends. One day, they discover a huge egg, abandoned in the middle of a clearing. Olive suddenly feels invested with an important mission: to help the egg find its parents. The others aren't particularly interested, so she sets off alone...

A debut book by Charlotte Pollet, and a world overflowing with imagination and humour. Her modern, clear line drawings, brought to life by vivid and dynamic colours, perfectly depict her characters in constant motion, and the absurd (or both) twists and turns in the plot. A story book showcasing a cast of highly contrasted female figures, leading the reader to question greed, fanaticism in all its absurdity, and most importantly, the power of friendship.

collection orage

Orage (Storm), for a series of comic books that takes seriously the turbulent time of adolescence, that time when we learn to become ourselves.

From science-fi to crime novels, from romance to adventure stories, these tales seek to reveal the storm and complexity of this journey, in all its difficulty but also its beauty.

At Biscoto, we believe in the power of stories. Stories that open up spaces of freedom, curiosity and difference. We believe that comics can be a place of gentle resistance and joyful emancipation, a mirror held up to those who do not always recognise themselves in the dominant images.

Orage includes books for today's teenagers and young adults: pluralistic, conscious, sensitive and rebellious. Books that celebrate strong friendships, budding romances, silent struggles and legitimate anger. Books that speak out where others remain silent. Books that accompany, that can shake things up, and that sometimes heal. Books that say: you are not alone!

A storm is not just a disturbance, it is a change of air. Because after the storm, something new can happen. Orage, to describe youth as a burst, a jolt, a necessity.

Reine Investigates: Kisses, Crimes And Alibis

Louise Aleksiejew

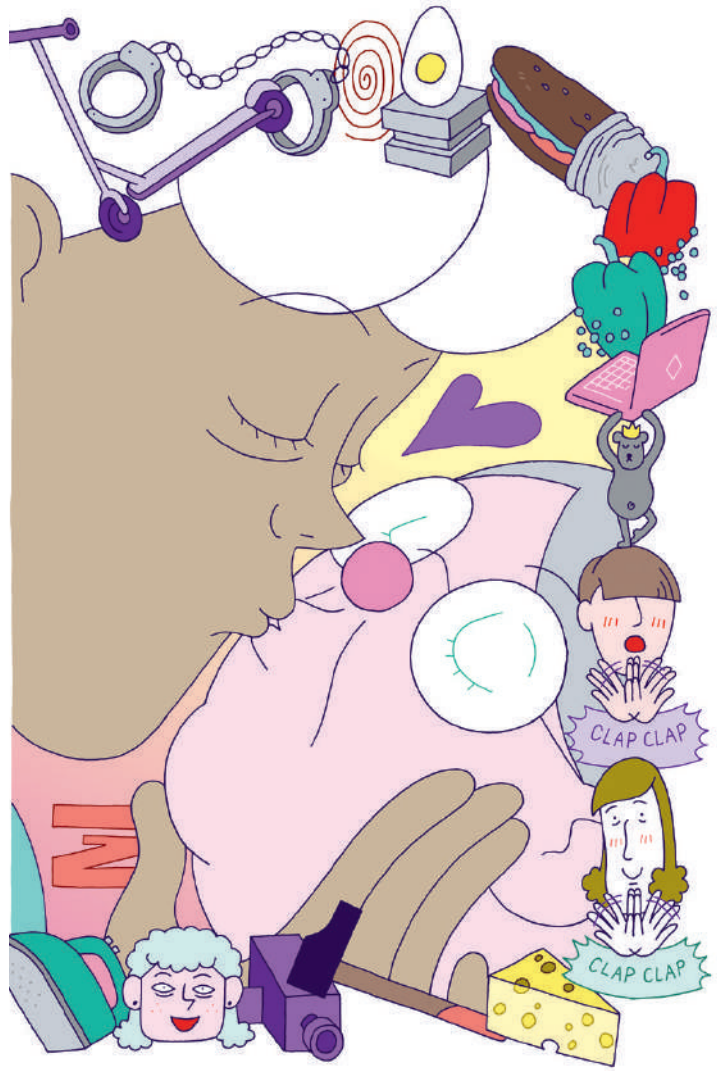

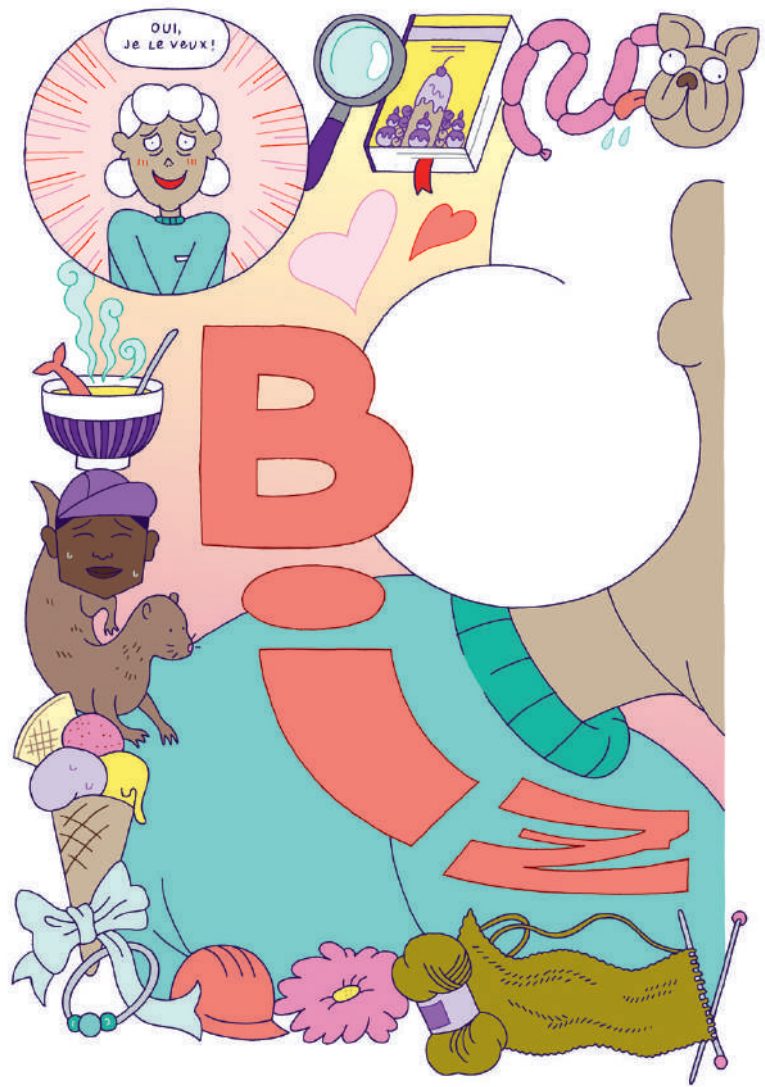

Reine Gorowski is an outstanding detective who lives for the thrill of investigations, and no case is too difficult for her! When she meets Agnès, the lovely chef at the Au Ranpo restaurant, it's love at first sight for the investigator. She falls under the spell of both the chef and her delicate red herring soup, whose aroma drew her here. However, she is quickly snapped out of her reverie when a neighbouring customer collapses to the floor. There is no doubt in the detective's mind, invigorated by her budding love: this is murder! This first encounter marks the beginning of a series of incredible adventures for Reine, but also for Agnès, who, by the best of chance, is always nearby...

12 years and + 19 €

224 pages
17 x 23 cm

Soft cover + dust jacket
9782379623479

Summer With Olivia

Melhia Martin

In the height of summer, Anna tries to escape boredom between her grandmother's vegetable garden and the sweltering afternoons. Everything changes when she meets Olivia, who has come to spend her holidays in the village. Soon, their days are filled with swimming, whispered confidences in the pool, pyjama parties and impromptu expeditions into the forest. But behind these bright moments, Anna senses a new turmoil: a feeling that blossoms slowly, like a flower in the sun... especially when Olivia smiles at her.

12 years and +

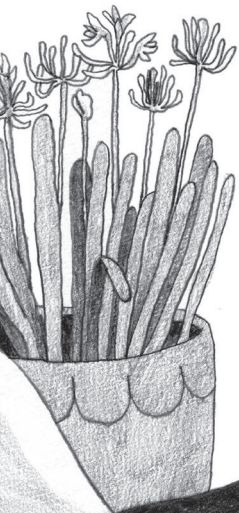

16 €

168 pages

17 x 23 cm

Soft cover + Dust jacket

9782379623479

IL EST BEAU TON BRACELET.

MERCI!

C'EST MOI QUI L'AI FAIT.
JE TE MONTRERAI, J'AI UN CARNET
OÙ JE DESSINE MES IDÉES
DE BRACELETS.

